Harry Kresge Withdraws Sticker Candidacy

Calls Upon Friends To Support GOP

Harry D. Kresge, East Stroudsburg druggist and minority Republican county commissioner for the past eight years, announced yesterday that he will not run on a sticker or write-in campaign at the November 6 General Election.

Mr. Kresge's announcement was received by The Daily Record early yesterday afternoon, and was the only important development in an otherwise quiet campaign.

"I am not only not going to run on a sticker or write-in campaign, but I urge all my friends in Monroe county to vote the Republican ticket," Mr. Kresge said.

Shortly after the July 25 primary election when Mr. Kresge narrowly missed winning the Republican nomination for a third term, he advertised in the columns of The Daily Record that he would be a candidate at the November 6 General election.

His withdrawal and appeal for support of the Republican ticket, clears the atmosphere which has clouded avowed Republican efforts to elect two county commissioners next Tuesday.

The Democratic team for commissioner is headed by Granville Shiffer, the party's county chairman. The other candidate is George E. Shick, a veteran of 12 years in the commissioners' office, now seeking his fourth term.

Republican nominees are Sheriff Amzi F. Altomose who is now serving out the unexpired term of the late Sheriff Eugene Serfass, after having served one full term in that office. The Serfass term ends Jan. 1, 1952.

The Democratic party goes into Tuesday's election with 10,151 registered voters compared with 6,739 Republicans.

Democratic majority of 3,412 is a gain of 125 voters over the majority held by the Democrats at the time of the primary election this year.

Other contests for the top county offices include:

District Attorney with Detlef A. Hansen, Democrat opposed by Attorney Elmer D. Christine, Republican. Mr. Hansen is completing his first term of four years. This race, for interest, is second in importance to the county commissioner contest.

Register & Recorder Floyd Butz, Democrat, who is completing his first term of four years, seeks reelection, with George Smith, Middle Smithfield Township as his Republican opponent. Mr. Smith has never before aspired to public office. He has never before engaged in politics.

The veteran prothonotary and clerk of the courts, Claude Metzgar, Democrat, is seeking re-election. Mr. Metzgar's opponent is James Gould, West End dairyman, also making his debut in politics on the Republican ticket.

Republicans also have two candidates for the three posts of county auditor which will be filled next Tuesday. They are Mrs. Mary E. Garcia, an incumbent, and John Wernett, Saylorburg. Mr. Wernett is representative of a financial house.

The contest for sheriff brings together Jacob Altomose, Democrat and son of the late Sheriff Francis Altomose, and Victor Henning, Stroudsburg Republican. Mr. Henning has been affiliated with the sheriff's office for the past six years as chief deputy sheriff.

Accuses Congress

Washington (AP)—President Truman accused Congress of recklessness neglecting civil defense "under the pretense of economy." "There are no bargain basements where we can pick up America's security at cut-rate prices," he said.

Bet Messages Prohibited By Western Union

New York (AP)—The Western Union Telegraph Co. yesterday ordered a nation-wide halt to the transmission on its wires of so-called "wager message" or money orders related to bets.

The company said it acted to protect its employees from possible criminal prosecution.

The decision came on the heels of a Bridgeton, N. J., jury verdict convicting the company and its local manager of maintaining a disorderly house where persons placed bets.

A company spokesman said the money order ban applied only to those connected with betting, and won't affect sending of ordinary money orders.

Draft Call Stepped Up For January

Washington (AP)—The Defense department issued a draft call yesterday for 59,650 men in January, ticketing 48,000 for the Army and 11,650 for the Marines.

It was the largest call since March, when 80,000 were inducted. It was also the largest draft for Marine Corps since it began to dip into the Selective Service manpower pool last August.

The big January goal, the Defense department explained, "compensates for the low call in December when inductions were suspended for the holiday period between Dec. 21, 1951, and Jan. 2, 1952."

In December Selective Service plans to call 16,000. The call for last January was 80,000, the same as February and March.

When the January call is completed a total of 794,330 men will have entered the armed services through Selective Service since the system was reestablished in September, 1950. The Army will have received 746,300 men and the Marines 48,030. Neither the Navy nor the Air Force has called for drafts so far, depending on volunteer enlistments.

House Probers Seek Records

Washington (AP)—House investigators asked yesterday for a look at the income tax returns of Theron Lamar Caudle, assistant attorney general in charge of prosecuting tax law violators.

This new tack in the Internal Revenue inquiry was disclosed as Caudle was recalled for another round of questioning by a House ways and means subcommittee. Like Thursday's session with the Federal prosecutor, it was behind closed doors.

Sinatra, Ava Apply For License In Philly; Wedding Expected To Take Place On Monday

Philadelphia (AP)—Singer Frank Sinatra and his heart-throb, Ava Gardner, slipped into town yesterday and filled out a marriage license application in the privacy of a judge's chambers.

Judge Charles Klein said Sinatra was "highly nervous," Miss Gardner "very calm."

And while the judge was telling reporters about the application, Frankie and the sultry actress slipped out a rear door, hustled into a waiting elevator and out of city hall.

The ink was hardly dry on Sinatra's divorce, granted only Thursday at Las Vegas, Nev.

The couple will be married here, said Isaac Levy, attorney

Ike Limits Capital Talks To Military

Washington (AP)—Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower was flying home from Europe last night for a quick round of Washington talks he said would be "strictly military."

The Supreme commander of the Allied powers in Europe told reporters before taking off from Paris that, as far as he is concerned, politics is out for this trip. Nevertheless, politicians hoped for some clue to just what Eisenhower will do about the 1952 Presidential campaign.

He was asked specifically if any political subjects would be discussed with President Truman and replied: "Not from my point of view."

Most of Eisenhower's two days in Washington—next Monday and Tuesday—are expected to be devoted to:

(A) plans for whipping together a closeknit fighting force in Europe, and (B) ways of ending a reported clash between Washington civilian government leaders and the Pentagon over the organization and speed of military production.

Mr. Truman summoned the general from Paris to Washington with the announced plan of conferring on matters affecting the supreme Allied command and the North Atlantic defense setup.

Officials in a position to give an authoritative outline said yesterday Eisenhower will ask some drastic steps to create a balanced fighting force in the shortest possible time, say six months to a year. This would be sooner than had been contemplated under the long-range view.

The idea was said to be to give Europe an effective, if small, military force that would help inspire confidence while the long-range plan is still carried forward. The idea of having a really adequate defense within three years would continue to be the goal.

It is generally agreed that Eisenhower has not been happy about the progress of the Joint Defense program, and has felt at times that the U. S. wasn't pressing the European governments hard enough to do more. Conceivably, the idea of a force in being would encourage faster progress.

One of the reasons behind Eisenhower's return for conferences at this time is understood to be a different of opinion in Washington on production procedures.

Defense Mobilizer Charles E. Wilson is understood to have been pressing the Pentagon for some time to fix detailed and specific production goals for armament and military materials generally. He is said to have argued against delays in production which result from frequent retooling of plants to incorporate the very latest developments in various weapons.

Fake Call Makes Robbery Possible

Nashville, Tenn. (AP)—A fake telephone call which lured a bank teller from her cage enabled two well-dressed men to snatch a roll of bills from the First American National bank yesterday.

Lewis Carden of the bank's operations department said about $1,500 was stolen.

He said Miss Martha Turner, 19, was counting money in her cage when she was called to the telephone. While she was away one of the men diverted attention of another teller while his companion reached in the opening and took three packages of $5, $10 and $20 bills. They walked out of the bank and left in an automobile.

and long-time friend of Sinatra. Levy and Mannie Sacks an official of RCA-Victor Corp., accompanied the couple yesterday.

Just where or when the marriage will take place wasn't announced officially. There was some possibility Monday might be the day, and that the event might be at the Levy home. Mrs. Levy was quoted earlier as saying Sinatra had told her: "I'd like to marry Ava at your home."

In any event, it will not be before Monday. Pennsylvania law requires a 72-hour waiting period of the application and is-

Congressman Walter Wins Permission For War Bride To Enter United States

Washington (AP)—Ellen Knauff, German war bride who had been barred from this country for three years on charges she was a spy for Czechoslovakia, finally won the right last night to be admitted.

Attorney General McGrath announced approval of a recommendation by the Board of Immigration Appeal "that the alien be admitted to the United States for permanent residence."

Rep. Francis E. Walter (D-Pa.), who had interested himself in Mrs. Knauff's case, welcomed McGrath's announcement as proof that under the American form of government, "justice ultimately prevails for the weak and strong alike."

Mrs. Knauff, a 36-year-old German, has been trying to get into the U. S. since her marriage in 1948 to Kurt Knauff, an American soldier then stationed at Frankfurt, Germany.

She has been detained at Ellis Island in New York harbor for most of the three years. A special immigration board of inquiry held last March that she was a Czech spy in 1947 while working for the U. S. occupation forces at Frankfurt.

That inquiry board held her entry would be dangerous to U. S. security but the Board of Immigration Appeals, and the attorney general, have now held that she may enter.

Mrs. Knauff has denied the spy charges all along, saying she had never even seen the witnesses who testified to her alleged spying. The husband is back in Germany now, as a civilian employee of the U. S. Army.

President Sees Greater Hope For World Peace Through Royal Couple's U. S. Visit

Washington (AP)—Elizabeth and Philip returned to Canada yesterday, assured by President Truman that never before had the U. S. been visited by "such a wonderful young couple."

The official good-byes were said in the White House rose garden, on a cold, misty day. But Mr. Truman beamed warmly as he told Britain's Princess Elizabeth and her handsome husband, the Duke of Edinburgh:

"We have many distinguished visitors here in this city, but never before have we had such a wonderful young couple that so completely captured the hearts of all of us."

He told them to come back soon and bring the children.

Mr. Truman said a world with no war will depend in a great measure on how well Britain and the U. S. work and stick together.

"I am sure," he said, "that we will do a better job for world peace because your visit here has tightened the bonds between us."

A few moments later they were whisked to the airport. Before they boarded the plane for Montreal Elizabeth took time to shake hands with each of the motorcycle cops who had escorted her about Washington.

Next stop for the royal couple: a weekend in the Laurentian mountains, to rest before continuing their trip back to England.

Price Index Falls Again

Washington (AP)—Wholesale prices fell off for the second week in a row, the Bureau of Labor Statistics reported yesterday.

During the week ended Tuesday, there was a drop of 0.1 per cent, to an index of 177 per cent of the 1926 average. It was 4.3 per cent above a year ago and 12.8 per cent above the pre-Korean average of 156.9.

Higher prices for grains, raw cotton, eggs, potatoes, and flaxseed were more than offset by lower prices for livestock, live poultry, and fruits.

Among other price declines reported were some drops in meat, cocoa beans, lard, hides and skins, print cloth, steel scrap, and inedible fats and oils. Prices were higher for cottonseed oil, tire fabrics, tung oil, rosin, cattle feed and red oak flooring.

The daily index of prices on spot markets and organized exchanges declined 0.8 per cent over the week to a level 14.9 per cent below that of last January 25.

Collins Thinks Armistice To Be Achieved

Munsan, Korea, Saturday (AP)—Buffer zone talks in the Korean armistice negotiations narrowed down yesterday to one main issue—the status of Communist-held Kaesong, just south of Parallel 38.

Except for minor adjustments, the Allies and Reds appeared generally agreed on the remainder of a cease-fire line stretching in a lazy S-shape northward across Korea.

In Washington, Gen. J. Lawton Collins expressed belief an armistice would be achieved eventually. The U. S. Army chief of staff returned from Korea Thursday.

However, Collins declined to go into details on the prospects for a affect the on-the-spot negotiations. The Reds insist on keeping Kaesong, which straddles the historic invasion route toward Seoul—the rubbled Korean capital 34 miles to the southeast.

An Allied spokesman said the United Nations demand that the Communists withdraw from Kaesong was firm but not final. The tenth session of the buffer zone sub-committees opened at 11 a. m. today (9 p. m., EST, Friday).

The Communists have agreed tentatively to accept an Allied proposal for a two and one-half-mile-wide buffer zone generally following the present battlefront in central and eastern Korea. That plan provides for Allied withdrawal from about 200 square miles of territory—to positions south of Kumsong in central Korea and south of Kosong on the east coast. The Allies would hold the "Heartbreak Ridge" area, the hard-won string of peaks in east-central Korea.

The Reds were still refusing to withdraw from an equal amount of territory in western Korea—the area of rolling hills dominated by the Kaesong road hub. The Red radio at Peiping called the Allied demand "preposterous."

Brig. Gen. William P. Nuckolls, U. N. command spokesman, describing the Communist stand as "one that takes everything and offers nothing."

Even so, the Allies for a long time have offered to make a further concession—relinquish control of all the coastal island off North Korea, including strategic spotting positions inside Wonsan harbor.

The measure would have permitted areas burdened by defense activities to get money from the government beforehand in time to provide needed schools. It would have supplemented present laws which permit local communities to get Federal school aid if they can show a big boost in school population because of defense activities.

Mr. Truman said the section he objected to would require that schools on Federal property in any of the 17 states with segregation laws would have to be operated on a segregated basis "to the maximum extent practicable."

This, he said, would include a group of schools now operated on "an integrated basis" on Federal property.

Medical examiner Thomas P. Devlin of Stoneham said the suicide verdict was made after Harvard University pathological examination which showed Dr. Covner was a "suicide by morphine poisoning during a state of depression."

Police at first were inclined to scout the suicide theory because no notes were found near the body. The spot where his body was found is some 20 miles from his home, the house from which three girls allegedly skipped with thousands of dollars in small bills.

The three girls admitted taking the money, and are held in New York after their arrest there in the midst of their big spending binge.

They have been identified as Roberta McCauley, 15, Eileen Jeffrey, 17, and Marilyn Curry, 16.

Scott said that his request has been "ignored" by the committee so far, adding "perhaps they will come to Philadelphia after the municipal election."

Pi Tau Mu, mathematics club of Stroudsburg High school, participated in a program of "Mathematics in Music" presented by Neil Merring, John Minnich and Joan Carrigan, members of the club, at its meeting yesterday.

Constellations were discussed by Betty Clugston, Louise Gorman and Bernadine Hasara at a recent meeting.

Recently elected officers are: President, Myron Feinsilber; vice-president, Yvonne Axfant; secretary, Louise Gorman. Miss Julia Sieg, head of the Mathematics department, is adviser to the group.

Variety Of Applications

Luminous baked finishes are now applied to a variety of metal articles during the process of manufacturing. Such items as door and drawer hardware, electric switch and outlet plates, escutcheons, clock dials and cases increase safety in the home because of their visibility in the dark.

The area of the United States is about 1,905 million acres, excluding large rivers and lakes.

Western Counties Expect Three Inches Of Snow

Pittsburgh (AP) — Western Pennsylvania's first ground-covering snowfall of the season—possibly adding up to three inches—is predicted for today.

A "special revised" forecast from the U. S. Weather bureau said last night's rain and snow mixture is expected to change to genuine winter snow by morning.

The weatherman said also that temperatures probably won't get above 35 degrees today following an overnight low of about 30.

Heart Attacks Claim Lives Of Hunters

Harrisburg (AP) — Two more hunters died of heart attacks yesterday and a number of others were injured as the 1951 small game season moved through its second day.

Hunters who suffered heart attacks were Robert G. Bulick, a 72-year-old retired farmer of Stormstown, Centre county, and Frank Kyner, 60, a Chambersburg farmer.

Both died while hunting in the area adjacent to their homes.

The fatalities brought to eight the number of persons died while afield. A 10-year-old boy and a 39-year-old hunter were shot and six others have died of heart attacks.

Meanwhile, the State Game commission reported a good-sized number of hunters despite adverse weather conditions.

Thomas P. Frye, executive director of the commission, said those who braved the elements "were lucky and got their bag limit."

He said the number of hunters afield would have been greater had the weather been better.

First Snow Of Season Falls Here

Crippling fog, creeping ice and cracking temperatures marked the rapid approach of winter yesterday throughout Monroe county.

In and around the Stroudsburgs snow fell yesterday morning. It was the community's first snowfall of the season. Shortly before noon the light snow changed to a mixture of mist and rain which continued throughout the afternoon and night.

Residents of the Stroudsburgs had fewer worries than did other people in the county, especially those in higher elevations.

Pocono Lake reported rain, snow and slowly forming ice yesterday. Mount Pocono had 1.4 inches precipitation for the two-day period. Thursday and Friday, with a low temperature of 28 degrees, according to measurements at the Mount Pocono airport. Temperature at Mount Pocono yesterday at 5 p. m. still hovered below the freezing mark at 30 degrees.

Freezing rain on trees and shrubbery had turned Mount Pocono into a premature wonderland carved in ice. Snow which had fallen there Thursday remained on the ground untouched and unmelted by yesterday's steadily falling rain.

During the afternoon a dense fog rolled over the entire vicinity making travel on the highways a minor hazard around Mount Pocono.

At Tobyhanna, construction work on the new Signal Corps depot was slowed down. Ice-covered vehicles and cold-blooded machines failed to operate at maximum efficiency. One construction official estimated the slowdowns had cost "around $1,000" for the two-day period.

Tobyhanna reported rain and snow yesterday, with an unofficial temperature low of 28 degrees sometime Thursday night.

Low temperatures throughout the area failed to produce sufficient ice to cover highways. In all regions reporting the highways remained in condition for travel.

County Red Cross Chapter To Send Gifts To Men At Sea At Christmas-Time

Christmas gifts for servicemen who will be on the high seas at Christmas-time will be sent out by the Monroe chapter of the American Red Cross, which last night appointed Mrs. J. E. Arnold in charge of the project.

The chapter has agreed to a quota of 25 gift packages, and any other organizations who wish to join them in sending gifts may get further details of suggested items to be included from Mrs. Arnold or at Red Cross headquarters.

At the meeting, last night, Arlington W. Williams presided in the absence of the chapter chairman, George Robinson.

In the home service report, read by Mrs. Clifford Heller, 23 of the 25 cases during the month concerned men in active service or their dependents. There were 22 calls not counted as cases, 4 cases needing financial assistance; 16 telegrams and 7 long distance telephone calls on behalf of service men; 7 home visits, 95 office interviews; 7 transient veterans assisted; 8 referred to the use clothing room.

LeRoy Mikels reporting for the blood program, announced the "living Christmas gift" theme of the December 20 visit of the mobile blood unit here with headquarters at the VFW. He reported 167 pints received at the October visit.

In the volunteer services, Mrs. LeRoy Koehler reported that 61 volunteers had given 664 hours of service during the month of October with 32 working 215 hours with the blood bank; 39 working 435 hours at the hospital; and two motor corp members giving 14 hours during the month.

The report showed that the Gray Lady service was high with 39 volunteers giving 457 hours of service most of it at the hospital. Administration took 2 volunteers 12 hours; canteen 12 volunteers 84 hours; motor service with 31 trips totaling 468 miles took 3 volunteers 29 hours. The nurse's aide service used 3 volunteers for 21 hours, the staff aide service 4 volunteers for 28 hours; and six registered nurses gave 32 hours, most of this concerned with the blood program.

The Red Cross home nursing program committee of which Mrs. Eugene Martin is chairman, met yesterday afternoon, and the report of the meeting was read last night. During the past year 12 home nursing classes were held in the county and 132 certificates were awarded.

This year's program will get underway with a class sponsored by the Barrett Parent Teachers

Police Find Runaway Boy

State Trooper Peter E. Sabinsky, of the Stroudsburg sub-station, picked up a 12-year-old boy at Johnson's diner, Tannersville, early yesterday. The youth had run away from his home in Scranton Thursday night.

The parents of the lad were notified and the mother arrived in town yesterday afternoon and took her son back home with her.

Pfc. Sabinsky picked up the boy shortly before 6 a.m. yesterday. He was held in custody until the arrival of his mother.

association to be held in the Barrett school.

LeRoy Mikels presented the report of the budget committee for the coming year, and the report was accepted by the board. The board also voted to send a letter of appreciation to Herbert Croe for auditing the annual report of the chapter without charge.

Proposal To Reconvene State Legislature May Be Discussed

Harrisburg, (AP)—Gov. John S. Fine disclosed yesterday a plan to reconvene the Legislature prior to December 10 may be discussed after the November 6 election.

To date, however, there have been no talks about returning the lawmakers to Harrisburg to act on a deadlocked tax program, Fine said.

He denied a published report that Sen. M. Harvey Taylor, Senate president pro tempore, has asked him to back a move to end the recess which started October 1.

"Taylor hasn't said anything to me about it and I talked to him as late as this morning," he told a newsman.

Taylor, touring rural Dauphin county yesterday, was unavailable for comment.

Fine was reached by telephone at his Nanticoke home where he is recovering from a cold.

Asked if he would ask the Senate to be called back if Taylor makes such a request, Fine replied:

"I'm not going into any 'ifs' at this time. I have no plans at this time to call back the Senate. After the election there may be some discussion of it. No plans have been made yet."

Either Taylor as Senate president pro tempore or Rep. Herbert P. Sorg (R-Elk) as speaker of the House has the authority to summon the respective chambers into session under the recess resolution passed October 3.

They are unlikely to do so, however, without clearing it with the Governor.

Sorg, reached at his home at St. Marys, said he knew of no plans to call back the House members.

Connor Urges Use Of Coal

Springfield, Ill. (AP)—Charles W. Connor, the defense solid fuel administrator, said last night the nation must call a halt on increasing consumption of oil and gas and turn instead to its "relatively unlimited" supply of coal.

In an address before the Illinois Mining institute, Connor said this could best be done by supporting Secretary of the Interior Chapman's program for the production of synthetic fuels.

Congress has authorized the Interior department to make extensive tests on the production of critically needed chemicals and liquid fuels from coal, lignite and shale.

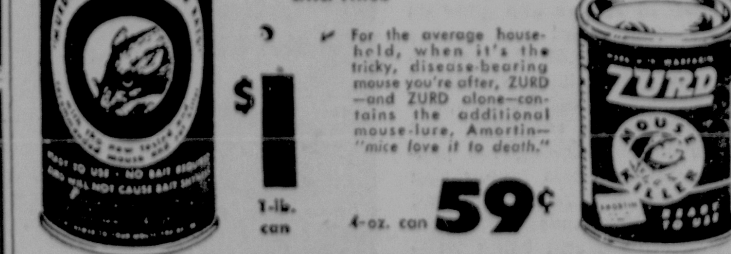

Connor said the United States has more than a thousand years supply of coal, representing about 98 per cent of the nation's reserves of mineral fuel. Paradoxically, he said, the trend in fuel consumption has been advancing most speedily in the field of petroleum, where reserves are limited.

Connor said that there is a prospect of an acute supply situation this winter for residual fuel oil.

It's Your Business

There are 17,107 qualified electors in Monroe County who have a partnership in their local government.

Every one of them must be concerned about their partnership with their government, if they have any hope of getting a fair return on every tax dollar they invest, or in maintaining clean, efficient government.

Keeping in mind that each and everyone of these 17,107 voters is governed by their own consent . . . the voting consent of the governed . . . Tuesday's very vital election leaves the twin issues of fair return for the tax dollar and clean, efficient government squarely up to the voter.

They must ALL vote, if they are to remain in partnership with their local government, whether it be township, borough, school district or county-wide in scope.

Do not forget . . . lethargy in citizenship is an insidious habit that can contribute to the slow death of even the kind of freedom of choice of office holders we know and hold so dear in America.

A great many of these 17,107 we have here in Monroe County have that strange and most illuminating faculty of doing so much for a private club, a Community Chest, a Chamber of Commerce, or institutional charity . . . But too many of them ignore their partnership in their government and stay away from the voting places on election day.

Remember . . . It's Your Business . . . to VOTE TUESDAY to protect your equity in your partnership with county, school district, borough and township government.

Approve Voting Machines

Monroe County is one of the last counties in this region of Pennsylvania—Pike excepted—which is not more than half serviced . . . many bordering counties are completely serviced . . . by the modern, foolproof automatic voting machines.

Records in these counties, quoted freely by political leaders, office holders and citizens, first stress the economic savings achieved by voting machines through decreased costs of election . . . printing, election board expenses . . . maintenance of ballot boxes and equipment . . . and many times effective consolidation of districts.

Nation-wide the economic factors show up just as favorably. For example:

In Ypsilanti, Michigan, counting election ballots in November 1950, when voting machines were used slashed election costs in half from what they were in 1946, the year of the previous off-year election. The time required to count the ballots was cut by more than 75 percent. More people voted in the 1950 election than in any other.

Consider these other advantages of the use of voting machines—advantages which voters of BOTH parties have enjoyed in Barrett Township 15 years because they voted in favor of voting machines:

Voting is easy and speedy

Secrecy is assured every voter.

There are no spoiled ballots.

You cannot make a mistake.

Counting is mechanically accurate.

A permanent record is made as the vote is cast.

Citizens of Coolbaugh, Middle Strud and Smithfield Townships, and Stroudsburg and East Stroudsburg Boroughs are entitled to voting machines. They should vote YES on this question Tuesday.

Snow houses or igloos are not very common among Eskimos.

The term Middle West specifically means the area comprising the states of Ohio, Indiana, Illinois, Iowa, Michigan, Wisconsin and Minnesota.

Try And Stop Me

By Bennett Cerf

In the town square of an English community, a Communist agitator appeared on his bicycle one evening, and after propping his vehicle carefully against a fence, began a fierce harangue. "Don't let the rich keep things that are justly yours," he concluded. "If you want food, take it from the nearest shop. If you want a fur coat, grab one—and the authorities be damned." The crowd dispersed and one minute later the agitator was heard screaming, "Officer! Officer! Some scoundrel has stolen my bicycle!"

"I hear so-and-so collaborated with you on your last three pictures," somebody told Ben Hecht. "Yes," agreed Hecht. "And a flea and an elephant once crossed a bridge side by side. When they got across the flea, commented, 'Boy, we sure shook that bridge, didn't we?'"

Hollywood

By Gene Handsaker

Hollywood—Are blondes dumb? No, yells Pamela Britton, pausing long enough in her career of playing dumb blondes to unload a few views on the subject: "Look at Anita Colby, Margaret Truman, Clare Boothe Luce, Dorothy Kirslen, and Mae West. They're certainly not dumb."

"And for an actress, you've got to be smart to play dumb."

Miss Britton was winding up nine and a half weeks here in the road company of "Guys and Dolls" as the dumb-type blonde café singer, Miss Adelaide. She declared she'd be "perfectly happy to play dumb blondes the rest of my life."

How come? I asked, thinking of all the stars who've thundered out about not wanting to get typed.

"Because I can go on and on—as dumb blondes have for centuries," said Pam. "Besides, there are so many different types of dumb blondes."

Different types? Yes, she insisted, citing these roles she has played:

The Scottish dumb blonde, Meg Brookie, for two and a half years on Broadway and the road, in "Brigadoon." "The aggressive type," said Miss Britton. "I chased a guy for three acts but didn't get him; too aggressive."

Her present portrayal of Miss Adelaide—"passive, sincere." Gets her man—after 14 years.

The "dumb, dumb blonde" like the "Miss Unconscious" whom Pamela played in the film, "Key to the City." She gave up a date with Clark Gable for a homelier guy who promised a meal.

The happy dumb blonde, Ado Annie, in "Oklahoma" in which Pam performed a year in Chicago. She liked whichever man she was with.

The smart dumb blonde in "Watch the Birdie." Realized what a chiseler her husband was, and walked out on him.

Do gentlemen prefer blondes? "Yes, and it's not true they marry brunettes," Pam insisted, her blue eyes wide. "I think it inflates a man's ego to have a dumb blonde around the house."

These Days — By George E. Sokolsky

Sokolsky

No matter whether one favors or opposes American diplomatic representation at the Vatican, it must be obvious that nothing can be gained in indecorous conduct in our relations with the Pope. Nothing can be gained by the United States, nor does it strengthen Christianity in this era of a Marxian onslaught on the religions of God that so important a matter should be used to divert the attention from corruption in the internal revenue offices.

Surely President Truman knew that Congress was adjourning when he sent General Mark Clark's nomination to the Senate; everybody else knew that. Why then throw this bomb at us? The United States has had relations with the Vatican since 1787, when John E. Sartori, though only a consul, was granted diplomatic courtesies. At that time, the Papal states were an extensive area in Italy, some 10,000 square miles as compared with 109 square miles today. However, it would seem from our best religious history, "Church and State in the United States," by Anson Phelps Stokes, that representation was opposed and faded as an issue until 1847 when President Polk sent a message to Congress on the subject:

"The Secretary of State has submitted an estimate to defray the expense of opening diplomatic relations with the Papal states. The interesting political events now in progress in these states, as well as a just regard to our commercial interests have in my opinion rendered such a measure highly expedient."

The consensus of opinion at that time was that whereas it would benefit this country to be represented at the Vatican politically, it would not be right to have representation to the Pope as head of the church. The House of Representatives, in which there were only two Roman Catholic members, voted in favor of providing funds 137 to 15. The Senate also passed the measure and Jacob L. Martin, a convert to Catholicism, was appointed the first charge d'affaires.

William H. Seward, Secretary of State, in 1862, wrote to Richard M. Blatchford, U. S. minister to the Papal states:

"... It was under these circumstances that this government, in 1843, wisely determined that while it maintained representatives in the capitals of every other civilized state, and even at the capitals of many semi-civilized states which reject the whole Christian religion, it was neither wise nor necessary to exclude Rome from the circle of our diplomatic intercourse. Thus far the new relation then established has proved pleasant and beneficial."

A major factor in the discontinuance of this representation was the unwillingness of the Papal authorities to permit protestant worship outside the legation grounds. An ambassador or a minister resident in a foreign country is by the law of nations, permitted to worship in his own private chapel. But this had become difficult in Rome. Rufus L. King, our minister, wrote to Secretary of State Seward:

"... It has not unfrequently occurred that the congregation, worshipping under the minister's roof, has reached the number of two hundred and fifty, or three hundred; and more than once has been much larger than could be accommodated in the apartments provided."

In 1867, Congress refused to appropriate further funds and thus, the mission ceased, not to be revived, until Harry Truman appointed General Mark Clark to it, except that during 1939, President Roosevelt appointed Myron C. Taylor to this post as the "personal representative of the President of the United States of America to his Holiness, Pope Pius XII."

As this position did not exist in law as Mr. Taylor served without personal compensation, the matter did not come before the congress. Mr. Taylor was not an official of this government. His appointment in this manner was a subterfuge.

The question of such representation is indeed a vexed one. The Vatican is a state with its own flag, courts, postal service, currency, etc. The Pope is, in this sense, a temporal ruler. Also, the Vatican does represent the most militant and effective moral force in European affairs. The attempt on the part of the Truman administration to explain the value of sending an Ambassador to the Vatican on the grounds of a good listening post is a shameful exposure of religious personnel behind the iron curtain to the charge of espionage; surely neither Catholic nor Protestant favors that.

The issue now goes into the 1952 campaign where it does not belong. Protestants and Catholics will quarrel over it and forget the corruption of the tax collectors. Mr. Truman has again proved his genius at sly devices.

Sunday School Lesson

Scripture Exodus 3-4

By NEWMAN CAMPBELL

Our lesson today concerns a great moment in history. For the Israelites, suffering in bondage in Egypt, a great leader was chosen to liberate them, to lead them to land which Jehovah said was to be theirs, where they might live as a unified nation in freedom.

For 40 years Moses had been living in Midian in the household of his father-in-law, Jethro, or Reuel, acting as shepherd to Jethro's flock. Forty years of quiet and peace—but it proved to be the time of training for Moses for the great work he was to do for Jehovah and his people.

All world leaders in history have been prepared for their missions in one way or another. George Washington learned military tactics when he was fighting for Britain in the French and Indian wars. He knew his territory; he was no "softie," for he had endured hardships. He knew how to command men and win their respect. He was honest and trustworthy.

Events in their early lives conditioned recent and present world leaders to their positions of responsibility, sometimes to tragedy and the world's hurt, sometimes to become, even as Moses, their people's deliverers.

Moses led his father-in-law's sheep one day into a grazing country near to the "mountain of God, unto Horeb." As he looked at a bush by the wayside, it suddenly burst into flames, but Moses saw that while it burned it was not consumed.

As he stopped to look at such an unusual sight, a Voice spoke to him out of the bush, "Moses, Moses," and Moses answered, "Here am I."

The Voice said, "Draw not nigh hither: put thy shoes from off thy feet, for the place whereon thou standest is holy ground. Moreover He said, I am the God of thy father, the God of Abraham, the God of Isaac, and the God of Jacob. And Moses hid his face, for he was afraid to look upon God."

Then God told Moses that He had seen the affliction of the Israelites in Egypt, had heard their cry, and had come to deliver them out of the hand of the Egyptians, and to bring them up out of that land unto a good land and a large, unto a land flowing with milk and honey; unto the place of the Canaanites, and the Hittites, and the Amorites, and the Perizzites, and the Hivites and the Jebusites."

Then God revealed to Moses that He had chosen him to free His people and to bring them to this land of freedom and plenty.

How would one of us feel if we had been living happily and quietly for 40 years in a place where we were surrounded by congenial and loving people, then suddenly we were ordered to leave all this happiness and security and to undertake an assignment that was extremely difficult and, indeed almost impossible?

Moses reacted much as we would have done. He made excuses. He said the Israelites would not believe that God had sent him to lead them to freedom. To that God told him to throw down the staff which he held. When he obeyed, the staff turned into a serpent. "Take it by the tail," ordered Jehovah, and when he did so the serpent became again a rod.

"Put now thine hand into thy bosom," said God. Moses did so, and when he took it out it was pure white with leprosy. "Put thy hand into thy bosom again," he was next told; and when he took it out it had turned a natural shade again.

These miracles and another, that of having river water turn to blood when poured upon the land, were to be used to convince the Israelitish leaders that Jehovah was indeed the power behind Moses. He was to use these wonders if the people disbelieved him. Then Moses gave the Lord the excuse that he was no "spell-binder," but "slow of speech, and of a slow tongue."

"I will be with thy mouth," countered the Lord, "and teach thee what thou shalt say," and the Lord's anger was kindled against Moses because of his excuses. He reminded him that he had a brother, Aaron, who could speak well. Moses should go to Egypt and meet his brother, who would do the talking for him.

So Moses took his wife, Zipporah, and his children and went to Egypt, taking the rod of the Lord with him. There the two brothers met and embraced warmly. Then Moses told Aaron all that the Lord had said, and the two brothers called the elders of Israel to assemble before them.

"And Aaron spake all the words which the Lord had spoken unto Moses, and did the signs in the sight of the people.

"And the people believed; and when they heard that the Lord had visited the children of Israel, and that He had looked upon their affliction, then they bowed their heads and worshipped."

Suppose Moses had refused his God's command; had returned to his home in Midian and gone on living his peaceful and secure life. No one outside his own little group would have known of him. Because he did his duty, accepted Jehovah's command, and succeeded in liberating his people, the whole world knows him for a hero, a wise leader, and even now, thousands of years later, books are still being written about him.

Looking at Life

By Erich Brandeis

Brandeis

They are making an experiment in Connecticut which, if it succeeds, will have changed human nature.

We have the Merritt Parkway in Connecticut, one of the finest in the whole country. It stretches from Greenwich to the Housatonic River and for its whole forty miles there isn't a traffic light and never are the grades more than three per cent.

It is a four-lane highway, divided in the center by a wide band of parking, and the whole thing is a perfect temptation for speeders.

The speed limit is 55 miles per hour, which means to many motorists that it is 70 miles. It is an accepted custom among motorists, as you well know, that a 40-mile speed limit means that you go 50 miles; 50 miles means 60; 70 miles, as on the Pennsylvania Turnpike, means anything to 100 miles or whatever your car will do.

There have been an unprecedented number of accidents on the Merritt Parkway recently—thirteen people killed since Jan. 1, and a number injured.

State Police Commissioner Hickey, an unusually efficient officer and a good friend of mine, decided he would put a stop to these accidents.

So now he has his State Troopers ride two abreast along the highway at a 60-mile speed, thus blocking the road for anyone who wants to go faster than the legal limit.

If anybody does sneak by the officers — bingo, he is arrested and taken into court for a stiff fine.

Friends pile into the star's dressing room and shower him with superlatives . . . Otis Skinner once witnessed a yawny portrayal of Hamlet — which had a friend in the title assignment . . . Unwilling to offend his chum, Skinner went backstage, clutched the hand of the gawshawl Hamlet and ejaculated: "Ah, my friend. What a night for Shakespeare!"

Time may dim the brilliance of premiere triumphs and failures may relegate a star to oblivion—but the glow remains in the heart . . . After Sarah Siddons scored her initial success, a veteran player warned: "No matter how successful you are — someday you will be forgotten."

There are also officers equipped with radar along the highway, checking speeders. There are stations along the way where bail may be posted, with large yellow signs warning speeders.

For several days now all this has been going on and there have been no accidents.

So far the experiment is a success.

But as one of the State police officers told me the other day, "I don't think that all this will help very much. Sure, the motorists are obeying the law now, 'While we are patrolling the road, everything will be all right. They see our police cars, they see our uniforms, they see the big signs."

"BUT YOU CAN NEVER ENFORCE THE LAW BY MAKING PEOPLE AFRAID OF THE LAW."

"The only way to make them obey the law is by making them see the RIGHT of the law."

And that's about it.

That's the way it is not only with the speed laws but with ALL laws.

Making them AFRAID of the law means that they'll only obey the law when they know there is a policeman around.

The moment they think they are SAFE, they'll violate it again.

Making people behave is an educational process, not something for the cops or the judges or the jails.

An appeal to the pocketbook is not nearly as effective as an appeal to the conscience.

But that appeal must not be made by the police. It can be done only by the parents, the school, the church.

To HAVE to be good is one thing. To WANT to be good is another.

The Once Over

By H. I. Phillips

"Nize Horsey!"

A horse can't do fancy skating, box punch lay an egg, handle a hockey stick or make a political speech. Yet he is packing 'em in at Madison Square Garden. And the National Horse Show is but the climax to four hundred horse shows held all over the United States. How come? The horse has been a rare sight on the steeps of the country for more than a generation. Show the average American an oat bag and he will think it a "prop" in some quiz program. He will look at a set of harness and assume it is something out of wench Harry Houdini used to escape. Nevertheless horse shows go big throughout the country, and the ton one is at the Garden, the last place you would ordinarily go if you were looking for a horse.

Tens of thousands will pay in to see horses in the flesh and not in cowboy westerns. And what makes it hard to explain is that not one of the animals has ever been mentioned in the Racing Form or Jack's Green Sheet. "Thousands will attend without even asking if Shoemaker, Arcaro, Attkisson, or Guerin are riding. "What do you hear?" will not be the password. "No voice crying 'Hold your tickets until the result is confirmed' will ring through the air. There will be no loud lamentations 'I got swindled.' 'You touted me off, Ende' and 'The bum quit.'"

This is a little difficult to understand. Very few people in the eight million in New York ever owned a horse, drove a horse rode a horse or saw one except through binoculars. To hundreds of thousands of natives the only place to see one is at Belmont, Aqueduct, Jamaica or the trotting tracks. A horse on any street in Gotham would be hoisted for rummaging up traffic. If most citizens saw one in the yard he would suspect Jesse James was staging a raid or the Rodeo had failed to report an escape. Yet for a week or more the horse will be glorified in the very heart of Manhattan Island in a manner enjoyed only by the new Detroit sedan models, heavyweight pugilists, Sonja Henie or Ringling Brothers.

If a horse show can grip New York in 1951, why has the Six-Day Bike Race faded out, why do you have to go to a museum to see a bustle and why don't actors wear side whiskers? Why can't we find a buyer for that old set of harness we have had around ever since we were a kid? Why are all buggy-whip salesmen out of work? It must be love. Yep, traditional, inborn love for a noble animal and a great friend to man. It's good to know there are Americans who still raise horses for other purposes than the two-dollar mutuels and get the same kick out of a buggy ride that grandpa did. Personally we are a push-over for horse

Loyalty Month Begins With 'Roll Call'

The East Stroudsburg Methodist church begins a month of special emphasis, "Loyalty Month", in the service Sunday at 11 a. m. This service is planned as "roll call", and it is anticipated that an overflow congregation will respond to the special invitation of the "Visiting Teams" who have been calling in the homes of the membership during the past several days to invite everyone to be "loyal" to the services and activities of the church.

Several innovations in the order of worship will begin Sunday morning. Under the leadership of Ernest Michelfelder, organist-director, three choirs will be heard during the service. The altar choir, under Mr. Michelfelder's direction will sing the offertory anthem; the chapel choir—a choir composed of boys and girls from third to seventh grades, inclusive (formerly the junior choir) is directed by Miss Marguerite Cramer; and the newest addition to the family of choirs, "The Cherub Choir", a choir of first and second grade boys and girls, who will sing for the first time Sunday morning. Miss Bette-Jo Goodall will direct this choir. The pastor, Rev. Harold C. Eaton, has announced that there will be a "Children's Sermon" and his topic will be "Don't Be A Copperhead". The theme of the morning sermon by Rev. Eaton will be "My Answer to God's Call".

The evening service will be "Youth Night", and the guest speaker will be C. Gerald Blake Jr., who is a student at State Teachers college. Mr. Blake is in preparation for the ministry, and was last year student supply pastor for the Gouldsboro charge of the Methodist church there. Assisting during the hymn sing, directed by Paul Bartholomew, will be the brass trio, whose personnel is Ernest Michelfelder, Robert Stenlake, Barry Lambert. Terry Bartholomew will play a saxophone solo, with John Eaton accompanying him. The youth choir, whose personnel is composed of the students of eighth to 12th grades inclusive, will sing. The director of this choir also is Miss Bette-Jo Goodall.

Immediate following the evening service, the college fellowship will meet in the Guild room. Miss Janet Shelhamer, president of this group has announced that there will be a "discussion" topic as part of the program.

Young People Are Active

A week of varied activities has been experienced by the youth of the East Stroudsburg Methodist church, beginning with a testimonial "Hallowe'en party" on Monday night, in the recreation room of the church. Under the direction of Patricia Hunt and Gary Sterner, who are the chairmen of recreation for the Intermediate Youth Fellowship. A happy time of fellowship and fun was enjoyed by about 45 young people of the junior high age. Assisting the young people were a number of adult advisers and helpers, Miss Nancy Evans who is the program counselor for this group, Mrs. Fred Strauser, Mrs. Pearly Hunt, Mrs. Elmer Sutton, and Mrs. William Sincok. Serving as chairmen of the refreshment committee was Patricia Stiff who is also president of the fellowship. Others who had a part in the party were Joan Westgate, Phyllis MacNeir, Beverly Bogert, Howard Powell, Bill Sommers and Nancy Strauser.

On Thursday night, the Senior Youth Fellowship joined with the Intermediate to sponsor another of their well-known penny suppers, which is the method by which the budgets of these two groups are partially met. Although this seems to be under the heading of "work" for the young folks, observers at these suppers discover that there is a splendid feeling of cooperation and happy fellowship as they work together.

Last night culminated the plans of the Senior Youth Fellowship for their first event, under the recreation theme, for this season. The young folks of the senior group with a number of their friends, journeyed to the Pocono Plateau where they enjoyed games, singing, and some weird stunts, planned and directed by Loretta Bauscher, Richard Moore, co-chairmen of the Senior Youth Fellowship recreation committee, and their com-

New Choir To Make First Appearance Sunday Morning At Presbyterian Service

Tomorrow at the 11 a. m. worship hour in the First Presbyterian church of Stroudsburg, the recently formed high-school age youth choir will make its first appearance. ## OHIO FIRM IS ROLLER SKATING 'BIG WHEEL'

Lathe with its three-bladed tool turns wheels to exact size.

MERRILY they roll along—the 18 to 20 million skaters who glide and spin over some 5,000 rinks in the United States each year. With several roller skating shows drawing thousands of future fans to their productions, such firms as the Cleveland Skate company are busy turning out 200,000 pairs of rink skates annually. Even the armed forces are at work building rinks. An Air Force base in Texas recently asked the firm for help in putting up a rink. The defense program, however, is cutting into the skate manufacturers' supply of raw materials. A pair of rink skates usually lasts from eight to 10 years and the wheels must be replaced from three months to a year and a half, depending on the skater. The wheels are made of kiln-dried rock maple from upper Michigan and Wisconsin. A pair of skates contains about 128 wheel parts and uses steel, wood, aluminum, rubber and leather in its construction. Skating clubs with local and regional competitions are helping to make the sport into multi-million dollar concern.

Airline Cites Need To Build Asphalt Strip

Mount Pocono—The airport authority here received another communication from All American Airways which emphasized the urgency of making the entire new runway development project specific black-top surface.

The authority already has a project engineered and filed which calls for extension of a 3,000-foot grass, or heavy turf runway, 1,000 feet.

However, it calls for a turf runway and was in process of being amended to make the additional 1,000 feet black-top surfaced.

The additional length is required by Federal aviation authorities for passenger landings. All American has delayed using the airport to provide the region with air passenger service pending lengthening of the runway to meet Federal requirements.

Yesterday's communication indicated that newer Federal requirements would affect the type of service rendered by All American, if the existing 3,000 feet of runway remained turf.

Passenger loads would have to be cut, among other things, for landing on a turf runway.

With the entire 4,000 feet covered with black-top, top service could be provided for this region by All American, authority officials said. Preliminary steps were taken to boost the project to meet the new problem.

Just Between Us

—By Bobby Westbrook

Any slight enthusiasm felt for those big white flakes of snow falling yesterday morning, soon dwindled under the impact of the bone-chilling rain which followed.

It was a wonderful day for sitting around and watching Dotie Grant make bright fall arrangements, and thinking to yourself "now, I'll try that", except it never seems to work out quite that way—perhaps because all you have to substitute for her exquisite accessories are a three-legged deer, and somewhat deer-gnawed apples.

But while you watch her, anything seems possible. However, it was necessary to get to and from meetings, and in the process most mothers decided firmly that this was a night for ski-pants and boots for game-bound children.

And felt very liberal for letting them go at all, when any sensible person could see that the place to be would be home by the fire, dry and warm. But the wisest of appeal of that oil-cloth sign at Seventh and Main touched even a sensible heart.

But then the storm broke around many a family supper table. It wasn't winter yet, and nobody wore boots, and how would you like it if they told you what clothes to wear to a club tea?

Fortunately, the usual phone check-up revealed that other mothers were being equally exasperated, and for once the Mother's Team won. Though in the process, they must have decided that certainly that child sitting across from them wasn't all sugar and spice—not with those sparks flying. Flint and steel don't melt.

THE Wyckoff SHOPPER
Some of the most wretched memories of my life are associated with rain. Maybe that's the case with you. And all because of the hideous monotones that passed as "raincoats" when you and I were young. Remember them?—Clumsy, hot, and drab . . . reeking to high heaven of burned rubber! They were a far cry from the pastel tinted plastics of today . . . or the water repellent, all-weather toppers that make any day a "lovely day" to be caught in the rain," as the song says.

Carrie Rusk, who specializes in keeping her customers in dry, high-style, has loaned us her 1951-52 catalogue by Weatherbee to prove the point that a woman can be all wet and still be smartly, gloriously feminine.

Weatherbee specializes in such clever numbers as the Turnabout that leads a Jekyll-Hyde existence with one side plain and solid, and the other as Scotch as a bagpipe. Another happy thought from this company is the Sweep Coat, a pyramid that hugs close under the arms, then whoops it up with one tremendous swoop of skirt.

In material, there are Menswear Donegal, 100 per cent wool Saxony, worsted gabardine, rayon flannel, and Zephyros. There are luscious colors, plaids, checks, or what-have-you. Some styles have matching hats. And while Weatherbees are honey, so are the latest designs by Aquatogs, Milner and Rainshedder. As for price range . . . well, any woman can be fashion-bright on a dull day for as little as $17.95 or as much as $59.95.

Wyckoff's also have umbrellas in stunning variety. Some fold for easy carrying. Others are of the chic parasol type that poses smartly as a walking stick if the sun shines unexpectedly. These are priced at $5.98 up. The over-all price range for umbrellas is $2.98 to $11.50. All wonderful buys. We women shouldn't overlook the umbrella. Equinox or not, it's the one sure way to keep our powder dry!

The "town meeting" was held to give students an opportunity to address an assembly and to acquaint them with the proper procedures used during a meeting of a parliamentary group.

A panel consisting of three teachers and six students sat in on the discussions and attempted to answer all questions from the audience. Members of the panel were Miss Margaret Dare, Richard D. Haven, George Learn Jr., Evelyn Kane, John Frailey, Ann Frailey, Steve Van DeWater, Tom Jones, and Mac Roeder. Elwood Arndt served as moderator.

Highlight of the meeting was a discussion of the new report cards which the school will use this year.

Area Station Places First In Recruiting

The Wilkes-Barre Recruiting Main Station has won top recruiting honors in the State for the sixth time.

The detachment now takes permanent possession of the "golden bell," a golden replica of the liberty bell mounted on a mahogany base.

M/Sgt. James J. Marion, commander of the Stroudsburg recruiting station, contributed a total of 106 enlistments during the contest year from Nov. 1, 1950 to Oct. 31, 1951.

The "golden bell" was awarded to the recruiting main station in Pennsylvania which amassed the highest total of points per month on the basis of Army, Air Force, WAC, WAF and aviation cadet enlistments. Possession of the trophy was on a monthly basis.

The Wilkes-Barre station won possession of the bell six times, during the months of March, April, May, August, September and October, 1951.

Life of Riley

By JIM RILEY
Sports Editor

Rain and wet grounds failed to stop last night's football encounter between Stroudsburg and Slatington, and the game turned into one of those story book affairs with both teams being splattered with mud at the end of the first period of play. It was impossible to tell the numbers of the respective players after the contest really got underway, with one performer resembling the other, except for the difference in size.

The importance of next Saturday's Lehigh-Northampton League contest between East Stroudsburg and Nazareth is becoming more apparent each day. The contest will be aired over WVFO a week from Sunday, as a tape recording will be taken of the game while it is in progress. The contest is being carried as a transcription as previous commitments on the local station won't permit a live broadcast of the Bangor-Pen Argyl contest on Thanksgiving will be carried over WVFO, from Pen Argyl.

When the official announcement of the sale of the Scranton franchise to Louis Baselle, Marty Baldwin, Eddie Kirschner and Joe Cohen is announced it may mean the official end of the North Atlantic League, as all four of these athletic enthusiasts have played an important role in keeping the class "D" circuit alive. Baldwin is the number one stock holder in the Stroudsburg Poconos, with Baselle second. However, Baselle will be the number one stock holder in the Scranton franchise, when and if the deal is completed.

However, the future of the North Atlantic League will also become official next week, when Ernest "Duke" Landgraf and all interested parties gather at the Hazleton American Legion club on Wednesday, to decide definitely whether or not it is advisable to renew activity after a year in moth balls. The loop was formed in 1946 and operated through the 1950 campaign, before deciding to remain idle last season, due to the high cost of operation, plus the national and international situations.

Several newcomers are listed for action in the Bangor High football lineup tonight, when the charges of Coach Granville Evans tangle with Morrisville, Pa. High, on the latter's home field. The move was made necessary after several key figures suffered injuries in last Friday's tussle with Nazareth. Although none of the injuries were considered serious, the Bangor coaching staff is looking forward to this Thanksgiving Day tussle with Pen Argyl, with the hopes that the Slaters will be in top physical condition. The Bangor club, following tonight's tussle, is idle until the Pen Argyl battle.

The fact that a professional basketball official has been drawn into the national cage scandal will upset many who favor the pay-for-play brand of basketball over the collegiate style. This side used to point out that the fixers could never touch the pros because they were paid well enough so that they could turn down all sorts of attempts to regulate the game. However, when the money boys get at an official of the game, it speaks very badly of the sport in general.

From this angle it appears as if the only form of basketball that will be popular this season is the high school variety. As far as this writer knows, the result or final score of a scholastic cage battle has never been tampered with. However, reports from upper New York state last weekend indicated that two outstanding scholastic football players had been approached to throw a contest. It's almost unbelievable how low a gambler will sink to pick up a few bucks. Work seems to be an unpublished word to this fraternity.

However, the new tax bill that really puts the bite on bookies and professional gamblers should help reduce the tampering with professional and amateur athletics. Yet the only real apparent solution to the entire affair is the conviction and the handing out of stiff penalties to all those involved, from the top man right down to the college or high school students who take in cash on the side to influence the outcome of any athletic event for which honest citizens pay the freight.

Rumors making the rounds of East Stroudsburg State Teachers College dealing with the fact that two members of the football team had been discharged from the squad for fighting is false, so this column has been informed. The only Warriors not scheduled to be in uniform and ready for battle against Cortland today are those excused for illness or injuries. The Warriors are scheduled to take part in only one other home game this year, with Ithaca providing the opposition next Saturday. ESSTC completes the 1951 campaign by meeting Rider, at Trenton, on Saturday, November 17.

Slatington Edges Stroudsburg In Giffels Field Mud

Second Period Touchdown Decides Battle

Bruce Kemmerer, the best "mudder" in the game last night, sloshed his way 30 yards around his own right end, then five more directly through center in the second quarter to give Slatington High a 6-0 decision over Stroudsburg, at rain soaked and mud-splattered Gordon Giffels field, before the smallest crowd of the present season.

Playing without the services of seniors Don Stone, Gene Reish and Ted "Brooklyn" Stevens, all forced to the sidelines by scholastic difficulties, Stroudsburg penetrated to the eight yard line late in the final period, mainly on the pitching of Karl Weingartner and the catching of Floyd Williams and the strong running of Bill Bailey.

However, the Slatington defense stiffened on the eight yard marker after Bailey had circled his own right end for ten yards before being tackled on the sidelines. A pass went incomplete and two running plays lost to the 12, where the visiting black and white-mud permitting—clad Slatington club took over possession and ran one play before time ran out in the game.

Both clubs sloshed through an even first period, as play refused to leave the infield portion of the gridiron, although both clubs tried desperately to move the ball toward the middle of the field, where there was much less mud. However, both teams were content to battle it out at midfield during the opening round.

Each machine put on mild threats in the second stanza, before Slatington, behind the strong running tactics of Kemmerer began to roll. The fancy stepping back raced 30 yards around his own right end to the Stroudsburg five, then on the next play split the middle of the home team's line for the only score of the ball game. An attempted line plunge for the extra point fell inches short of the double chalk mark.

That was the last serious threat by either team, until the Mountaineers began to race the clock down field in the twilight seconds of the final period.

Players of both teams were splattered with mud from head to foot at the end of the first period and during the second half it was impossible to tell one regular from another, as each was coated with a slimy covering of mud.

Stroudsburg has two contests remaining on the 1951 books, both to be played on the road, at Northampton and Lehighton.

DeNikemen Clash With Ithaca

Coach Howard DeNik's East Stroudsburg State Teachers College soccer team, hopeful of keeping its undefeated slate intact, left its home base of operations yesterday at 5:30 p. m., for the journey to Ithaca, N. Y., for its scheduled encounter with Ithaca College, at 2 p. m. today.

Good Record

Fresh from a 2-2 overtime battle with West Chester last Wednesday and without serious injury, the booting Warriors are out for victory number four of the present campaign. In addition to its deadlock with the Rams, the ESSTC eleven has defeated Wilkes College, Trenton and Lafayette in that order.

Following today's contest the DeNikemen have two battles remaining on the agenda, Panzer at home next Wednesday and Lock Haven away next Saturday.

ESSTC Grid Machine Entertains Cortland Teachers On Wet Normal Hill Field Today

Water soaked uniforms, mud-clogged cleats and a slippery pig-skin will be feature parts of today's gridiron battle on Normal Hill, featuring Cortland State Teachers as the visiting eleven and East Stroudsburg State Teachers College as the host team. The kickoff is scheduled to take place at 2 p. m.

As if the weather wasn't enough for Coach Gene Martin and his staff to worry about, the likeable ESSTC mentor is faced with the task of replacing three of his best backs.

Norman Friend, Bill Jones and Joe Victor will all be among the missing for today's game, each being on the shelf with a different injury.

Friend damaged a knee in a scrimmage session on Wednesday, Jones has been out of uniform for two weeks with an injured shoulder. The senior fullback hurt the shoulder in the West Chester battle.

Victor, who has been a demon on offense all season, is on the bench with an injured foot. However, there is hope that Joe will see at least limited service in today's battle.

The ESSTC forward wall also sports one casualty in the person of Jim Harron. The reliable center may not be able to open because of an injured back.

Martin, in an effort to halt Cortland, the team that took the measure of the Warriors last season, 7-0, announced his starting lineup last night, after long deliberation.

The starting array features Bob Brown and Don Transeau at the terminal posts, while Al Sakovich and Dick Northrup have been named to the starting tackle berths. The guard positions will be manned by reliable Howard "Howie" Pewterbaugh and Henry "Hank" Pearson, while Dick Luttrell will open at center if Harron can't make the grade.

Bob Phelps and Larry Steever will divide the quarterbacking duties, with the former opening if ESSTC receives the kickoff. Dick Pritchard, Bangor's seat-back, and Ed Bishop, the place-kicking artist, will handle the halfback duties, while Dick Dinger will open at fullback, with Bob Brode taking care of the same position on defense.

Following today's tussle the Warriors have two more tilts remaining on the agenda, playing host to Ithaca next Saturday and winding up the season the following week against Rider, in Trenton.

Warriorettes Blank Temple In Hockey, 2-0

Philadelphia—East Stroudsburg State Teachers College surprised a highly regarded Temple University field hockey team yesterday, here on the Country Day school field, by a 2-0 score. It was the first win in two official outings for the charges of Coach Katherine Griffiths.

The first game found the Warriorettes battling Beaver College to a 1-1 stalemate.

Two Goals
However, there was no deadlock yesterday, as Grace Asberry stroked home two goals against the Owlettes. The first marker came late in the initial half, while the final score was midway in the second half.

Temple was unable to dent the scoring column at all against the tight ESSTC defense.

The Warriorettes take part in the Swarthmore tournament today, meeting Temple and Beaver for the second time this year in the morning, then returning in the afternoon to tangle with an All-Catholic squad.

Three all-collegiate teams will be chosen at the end of the tournament.

Illinois Host To Michigan In Top Game

By Harold Claassen

New York (AP)—When November rolls around college football teams usually find themselves paired against traditional opponents but on the first Saturday of the month in 1951 five intersectional contests mark the schedule.

Most traditional of the lot is the Notre Dame visit to Baltimore for its annual contest with Navy. The series has been going on for more than two decades but the Middies will be looking for only their fifth victory. And should they win Saturday it will be the first triumph of the year for the Middies.

Other intersectional contests are the visit of Southern California, Pacific Coast Conference power, to New York for a meeting with crib-wrecked Army; Pittsburgh's journey to Rice's stadium; Missouri's trek to Maryland and William & Mary's appearance at Pennsylvania.

Share Headlines

No matter how good these intersectional events may be they will have to share the headlines with such family squabbles as Michigan at Illinois, Indiana at Wisconsin, Baylor at Texas Christian, Southern Methodist at Texas and Washington State at Stanford.

Then, also, there are such neighborly affairs as Tennessee at North Carolina and Duke at Georgia Tech. Both are inter-conference games with Tennessee and Tech the unbeaten leaders in the potent Southeastern circuit. North Carolina and Duke offer spotted records, with indications the spots will be added to today.

The Michigan-Illinois fracas carries the day's biggest implications. Illinois is all-winning to date and Michigan, the defending Big Ten champ, hasn't been stopped inside the circuit. Some 79,000 fans will be on hand in Champaign to see if Johnny Karras, Illini back, can get three touchdowns and equal the immortal Red Grange's trick of getting 13 markers in one season.

Should either falter today, or the remaining games this season, Wisconsin would be the logical tie choice. The Badgers, boasting the country's most potent defense, are host to the same Hoosier team which mastered Ohio State with such ease two weeks ago. Wisconsin sneaked through with 6 to 6 tie against the Buckeyes earlier.

Unpredictable

No one knows what to expect in the Southwest loop. Texas Christian, loser of three of four non-conference affairs, tops the standings with two straight league triumphs, and today is the guest of Baylor, only unbeaten club in the loop. Texas and Southern Methodist, only team to lick Notre Dame, bang away in another contest while Texas A & M, September title favorite, is at Arkansas.

Princeton turns back Dick Kazmaier loose at Browns' expense in hopes of lifting the country's longest current winning streak to 19 games. Other eastern games have Columbia at Cornell, Dartmouth at Yale and Holy Cross, winner of five, taking on a Colgate team that can move the ball but not away in the right direction.

Washington State's sophomores, improving constantly, are at Stanford with the Indians' untarnished record in slight jeopardy. And while the sports' big brothers strut and preen before the collected millions, Fordham and Rutgers will block and tackle in the annual Football Hall of Fame game at New Brunswick, N. J.

There is plenty of parking space available and refreshments may be purchased during the races.

Louisville Gains Verdict

Louisville, Ky. (AP)—A brilliant 81-yard punt return by Bill Karns started the University of Louisville on a snow-swept road to a 26-2 upset victory over North Carolina State before a huddled handful of frost-bitten football fans here last night.

Karns made tracks in the snow at a time when State led 2-0 and when it looked like both teams were bogged down in the bitter weather.

Newfoundland — Richard McLain Greentown, was elected president of the Greene-Dreher Fair association at a special meeting of the board of directors of the organization here Wednesday night.

McLain succeeds S. Elmore Haag in the post. The president-elect has been a member of the association for the past fifteen years and has served for a number of years in executive capacities. He was traffic superintendent for some time and served as ground superintendent last year as well as assistant secretary of the association.

Other officers named were John Stroble, vice president; Henry Botjor, secretary; Robert Staph, assistant secretary and J. Wesley Akers, treasurer.

Approval Of Consolidation Is Expected

Approval by State voters on November 6 of the constitutional amendment for Philadelphia city-county consolidation, was predicted yesterday by the Republican and Democratic leaders of the state-wide Pennsylvanians for Consolidation.

"With the heartening endorsement of the amendment from 200 civic and political leaders from all over the State, we are confident that the voters will approve the merger of Philadelphia's two local governments by a wide majority on November 6," campaign co-chairmen Noehm S. Winnet, Republican and C. Jared Ingersoll, Democrat, said in Philadelphia.

"Unlike 1937 when voters outside Philadelphia turned down a similar amendment," Winnet and Ingersoll added, "this election day Pennsylvanians understand that consolidation effects only Philadelphia's own internal administration, and is a measure for better government which Quaker City residents want, regardless of party affiliation."

"We owe a debt of gratitude to civic, industrial, business and labor as well as political leaders and organizations, for helping us explain Philadelphia's unique circumstances of dual government to the people of the Commonwealth. In the past few weeks these groups have distributed millions of flyers, sample ballots and other messages reminding voters of the amendment which is Question One on all state ballots, and urging them to vote 'Yes!'"

Winnet and Ingersoll made a special appeal to all Pennsylvania voters, asking them not to overlook the amendment on November 6. In previous elections there has been a marked difference in the number of votes cast for candidates, and those cast for special ballot questions. To vote on special legislative questions, such as the Philadelphia consolidation amendment, it is necessary to pull the lever for each question in addition to pulling the lever to vote for candidates.

Democrats Hike Edge Over GOP

Democratic party voters showed marked strength in number over rival Republicans in official figures issued yesterday by the office of the county commissioners at the court house in Stroudsburg.

Total Democratic voters registered as of October 1 this year stood at 10,151, an increase of 414 over the number listed on June 2.

Republican voters showed a gain of only 289 by contrast — 6,739 now, compared to 6,450 in June.

An increase has also been noted in the number of voters registering for the November elections as "non-partisan" voters. This total has risen from 158 to the present 173, an increase of 15.

Remaining parties — Independents, Prohibitions and Progressives—showed neither increase nor decrease with their total registrations staying at 37, 6 and 1 respectively.

According to these figures, there were 3,412 more registered Democrats than Republicans as of October 1, an increase of 125 over the comparative totals four months ago.

Strength of the Democratic party is nearly twice as strong in East Stroudsburg as in Stroudsburg borough. The former shows a Democratic registration of 2,073 against 1,150 Republican, a difference of 923.

In Stroudsburg, total registration of Democratic voters amounts to 1,916 with Republican strength standing at 1,447 for a comparative total of 469 in the Democrats' favor.

Republican voters outnumber their opponents in only three townships and one borough in Monroe county.

Mount Pocono borough, Western Coolbaugh, Jackson and Paradise townships all show nominal majorities for the Republicans.

Total registration figures show 17,107 voters registered as of October 1. Percentage-wise this figure is split up 59 percent Democratic and approximately 39 percent Republican. Other parties account for the remaining 2 percent.

90 Per Cent Of Voters Contacted By SHS Students Plan To Cast Ballot Next Tuesday

Approximately ninety per cent of registered voters in Stroudsburg and surrounding areas will vote in the election Tuesday.

This figure is based upon an extensive survey of voters in Stroudsburg, Mount Pocono, Delaware Water Gap, Stroud, Hamilton and Ross townships. The survey, completed this week, was conducted by social science students at Stroudsburg High school under the supervision of Miss Lillian K. Stark.

The students and their instructors emphasize that their survey is not, by any means, complete. It does represent, however, an accurate cross-section of the voting public in the immediate area covered.

In Stroudsburg, 2,534 registered voters were interviewed. Of this total, 2,199 said they intend to vote in the November election—86.78 per cent of the total registered voters. The remaining 355—13.22 per cent—said they do not intend to vote.

Of 263 registered voters in Delaware Water Gap 254 stated intentions of voting, with only 9 replying in the negative. The Gap percentage—96.5—shows up as the largest in the survey.

In the Mount Pocono area the students contacted 264 registered voters. Of this total 95 per cent (251) will vote and the remaining 5 per cent will not.

An effort was made, on the part of the students and the social studies department, to contact as many other residents of outlying districts as possible. These areas include Hamilton,

Stroud and Ross townships and all other districts sending students to the high school.

In this final category, 422 voters were interviewed, 348 stating their intention to vote and 74 "not voting" for a percentage of 82.5 and 17.5 respectively.

Student supervisors were appointed by school officials to take charge of districts outside Stroudsburg proper. Tova Hammerman was in charge of interviews in the Water Gap area; Mary Battisto took charge of Mt. Pocono; Marian Swartley, Pocono Park and Neil Merring, Arlington Heights.

Department personnel working with the students were Sam Russell, Alfred Morse, Carlton Berger and Lillian Stark.

More Than 2,000 Hunting Licenses Issued To Date; Exceeds Last Year By 600

County Treasurer P. A. Rockefeller reported yesterday afternoon that 2,055 resident hunters' licenses and 200 non-resident licenses had been issued at his office up to that time.

The figures do not represent the total number of resident licenses issued in the county, for the reason that these may be procured at business places in nearly 15 other points in the county.

There were also 2,766 licenses issued at the treasurer's office here for the special antlerless doe season, the complete quota. However, there were 1,844 available at the Revenue department at Harrisburg. It is not known locally what proportion was taken out at Harrisburg.

Treasurer Rockefeller stated that the number of regular resident licenses sold at his office this year is far in excess to that of a year ago, when approximately 1,400 were issued.

The reason for the increase, the treasurer said, was that doe licenses for use in Monroe county were obtainable only at his office. As a result, many hundred of hunters from neighboring counties of Lehigh and Northampton, for instance, came here for the doe licenses and took out a license for the regular hunting season at the same time, rather than make an extra trip in their home counties.

Several Issues To Be Decided At Election

Voters who go to the polls Tuesday will have before them two important Constitutional amendments, both dealing with the consolidation of Philadelphia's city-county government, the Sunday movie issue in one township and the voting machine proposal in five other regions.

The pending Constitutional amendment has no application to any other county in Pennsylvania, but it must be submitted to all voters of the state.

If approved, and all major leaders of both political parties in the State have urged voters to vote "yes", it will do away with the massive duplication of offices in Philadelphia where the city covers the same area as the county and two sets of offices operate in the same area.

Hamilton township voters will say "yes" or "no" to Sunday movies. Directly affected by the outcome at this time is the out-door theater near Bartonsville.

Voters of Coolbaugh township, soon to be expanded in population by a "New Town" development at Tobyhanna, Middle Stroud township, Smithfield township and voters in Stroudsburg and East Stroudsburg will pass on whether the County of Monroe shall buy them voting machines for use in future elections.

Only one district, Barrett township, has voting machines. Voters in that township approved machines and they were purchased by the County of Monroe some 15 years ago.
